SKELETONS FOUND IN POMPEII.—About two years ago in a small street, the workmen employed in the excavations discovered an empty space of an unusual form, in which were some skeletons. Before disturbing them they sent for Signor Fiorelli, who was fortunately at hand. A singularly happy thought struck him. He had the empty space filled with liquid plaster of Paris, and repeated the process in the case of some other opening which presented a singular appearance. As soon as the plaster was hardened, the surrounding ashes were carefully removed and there lay displayed the perfect casts of four human bodies. All four are now placed in the Museum, and a more singular and affecting sight is perhaps not to be seen in the whole world. The plaster was hardened around the ashes so perfectly in the shape of what may be termed the mould formed by the falling ashes round the living bodies that the whole aspect of the dying-frame is preserved, even to the minutest details, except that here and there the bones of the skeleton are partially uncovered. M. Monnier contrasts them with Egyptian mummies, which are bare, black and hideous, and arranged in an artificial posture for their burial, while in the exhumed Pompeians we see human beings in the very act of dying. One of them is the body of a woman, close to whom were found a large number of coins, two silver vases, some keys and some jewels, which she was carrying with her when the falling scoriæ arrested her flight. It is easy to trace her headdress and the materials of her clothing, and on one of her fingers are two silver rings. Her hands were so clasped in agony that the nails had pierced the flesh. With the exception of her legs, the whole body is swollen and contracted; it is plain that she strove violently in her dying struggle. Her attitude, says M. Monnier, is that of the last agony and not that of death. Behind her lay another woman and a girl, evidently of humble rank. The elder of the two, possibly the mother, has an iron ring on one of her fingers. The signs of a dying struggle are evident, but the death seems to have been easier than in the case of the victim last described. Close to her lies the girl, almost a child in age. The details of her dress are preserved with a startling faithfulness. One can see the material and stitching of her frock, the unmended rents in her long sleeves, and the knots in her little shoes. She had drawn her dress over her head, to ward off the torrent of ashes, and falling headlong on her face had rested her head on one of her arms, and so died, apparently without a struggle. The fourth body is that of a large and powerful man who had set down to die with his arms and legs straight and fixed. His dress is completely preserved; his trousers are close, his sandals are laced to the feet, with nails in their soles. On one finger is an iron ring; his mouth is open, and shows that he had lost some of his teeth; his nose and cheeks are strongly marked, the eyes and the hair have disappeared, but the moustache remains. The whole sight is tragic to the last degree. After the lapse of eighteen centuries the terrible death seems to be enacting itself before us with all its appalling sufferings. We may add what M. Monnier does not seem to be aware of, that stereoscopic views were taken of the bodies, and that we have seen them here in London. The minute details which the actual plaster casts present are of course less visible, even with all the reproducing powers of the stereoscope; but enough is to discerned to suggest all the terrors of the dying moments.—Review of Monnier's Pompeii.

STATE JURISDICTION OVER PAROLED PRISONERS.—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette gives the following as a decision rendered by Attorney General Speed:

I am of opinion that there is no legal duty imposed upon the Government of the United States to prevent interference with the execution of process issued out of a State court in Kentucky for the arrest of persons who may be paroled Rebel prisoners charged and indicted in such courts for robbery, committed within its jurisdiction, on the occasion of what is described as the Morgan raid, and therefore the Government of the United States ought not to prevent or interfere with the execution of such process. Whether such persons are guilty of robbery, or whether they have an adequate legal defense to such charge, are questions for the judicial determination of the court before which they may be tried. The jurisdiction of the court to decide these questions, after the parties are arrested, is unquestionable, and the Government of the United States should not interfere to take the cases out of or place them beyond the cognizance of the State tribunal.

This opinion is indorsed by the War Department.

STATE RIGHT PLEAS.—A Washington letter, of the 10th, says: Alexander H. Stephens, in an application for pardon, occupying two quires of paper, reasserts that State Rights doctrine, and demands upon this principle exemption from the effect of the amnesty proclamation. His effrontery is followed by many rebel notables—Nicholson, Frodegar, Anderson, General Johnston, and others who are all unwilling to give up their cherished heresy. They seem to consider that their defeat by the bayonet requires no more apology than a defeat by ballot, that the war has only been a grand election, and the worsted party should be allowed to gracefully succumb.

Mining Notices.

Assessment Notice.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the SANTIAM GOLD AND SILVER MINING COMPANY, held at the office of the Company on the 8th day of July, A. D. 1865, an assessment of TWO DOLLARS per share, in gold or silver coin, was levied on the capital stock of said Company, payable to the Secretary at the office of the Company within thirty days from this date. All assessments that remain unpaid after the expiration of thirty days will be collected by immediate sale of the stock upon which such assessments remain unpaid. By order of the Board of Directors.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 25, 1865.

Manufactures.

It is not expected that a new country in the first stages of its growth, can proceed with a systematic development of all its various interests the same as older and richer communities do, but it is not unreasonable to expect it to go forward in a career of prosperity much more rapidly now than new countries did, or could have done, a few years ago. Our new States have now the benefits of the knowledge which the older ones have gained. The experience of the latter, teaching by way of example, instructs the former how to proceed in the work of building up great and prosperous commonwealths. We who live in communities which, from the recency of their formation, have acquired no more than a mere infantile growth, are not compelled to learn lessons of political economy merely by the slow methods of experience, or to get a knowledge in this way, of the processes by which our State may be made great in wealth and influence. The knowledge which others have gained we may appropriate to our own use, nor will it be wise to disregard their admonitory examples.

In Oregon, we are proceeding entirely upon a system of our own. It may not be original with us, since other States may once have practised it, but at this time it is peculiar to us alone, others having abandoned it. How thriftless this system is, may be appreciated when we contemplate its results. Its effects are visible all around us. We all know that during the last twelve years the growth of Oregon has not kept pace with that of the other States, and that the expectations entertained by our people have been repeatedly disappointed. Many reasons are assignable for our slow progress. Some of these, at various times, we have given. Another, bearing a near relation to what we said a few days ago, we shall here advance.

Practically, we are trading almost wholly on a borrowed capital. A moment's consideration will make this statement appear plain. Everything which they expose here for sale, our merchants, dealers and speculators buy in distant markets. By the time their stocks are exhausted, they must send all their money to the same markets to procure a new supply. The profits merely, are retained here, while the principal is sent abroad and used by others. This is almost the same as if we were using others' capital instead of our own. The meagre profits which accrue from this partial traffic, is the measure of our wealth. If the principal were expended in manufactures here, not only the first dealers would make their usual profits, but they into whose hands this money would go, would also employ it at once in such a way as would be gainful to them. In this manner the capital would be kept in the country, whereas by the present method, as already shown, the profits of but a single transaction remain with us, and the whole principal is taken elsewhere and so applied as to give employment to the labor that produces those commodities which we consume, and which instead of endeavoring to replace in part by our own labor, we purchase again from those whom we hire to make for us what we ought to manufacture for ourselves.

This is a sort of outline of the "Oregon system" to which we a moment ago alluded. By pursuing this course we keep ourselves wholly dependent on those who, because they hesitate not to work, are blessed with increasing prosperity. In ordinary cases it is the rich who hire others to do their work, but in the present instance this is quite reversed.

[illegible] that we now [illegible] could easily be produced at home. Many articles which are manufactured elsewhere and for which we pay a high price, could be manufactured here. It would scarcely be possible, nor is it necessary, to enumerate the great variety of articles which come here from abroad, but which we might make for ourselves. A [illegible] reflection will suffice to show any one that very few things for which the people of Oregon pay their money are of our own manufacture. In past times our population has been so small that there was no market here sufficient to justify the extensive manufacture of goods; but now Oregon contains a population so considerable that a steady demand is felt for all kinds of commodities which are offered for sale. Part of what we consume we ought now to undertake to manufacture at home. In this way we shall [illegible] the [illegible] of the State and lay the foundation of a steady and growing prosperity. To do this capital will be needed, as we have before explained. The [illegible] of other States lies in, and is produced by their manufactures. Of manufactures, commerce, too, is a concomitant. We have examples enough before us to show us how to succeed. The South was devoted entirely to agriculture; the North was, and is, not only an agricultural but a manufacturing community. The history of the war shows even more clearly than the last census, the difference between the wealth and resources of the two.

[illegible].—We notice that all our little Copperhead papers are taking pains to prove that their admired leader, Jefferson Davis, was not caught in female attire. The calumnious statement of the officers who captured him, these newspapers take pains in every issue to contradict. They stigmatize the story as more fabrication of base [illegible] cowards to injure an honorable opponent. In view of the wonderful knowledge which these Pacific coast papers have obtained about the capture, the slanders of the Eastern press are inexcusable. The sober old National Intelligencer has the following about the toggery:

THE FLAGS AND THE PETTICOATS.—The Treasury flags, one of which was torn by the spur of the assassin Booth, the other being in the grasp of the President when he was shot, together with the female toggery worn by Jeff. Davis at the time of his capture, have been forwarded to Milwaukie for exhibition at the Soldier's Home Fair, which is to be held this month.

MORE DEPREDATIONS.—It is said that the Indians have stolen ninety-three animals and shot two men near Auburn since the petition for military aid was sent here. We have no very recent information from there, and hence do not know whether these atrocious acts are still going on. We have hopes that all the Indians in that region may be destroyed before the end of another summer.

RECAPTURED.—Dick Turner, the inhuman monster who treated our soldiers so brutally at Libby prison, escaped not long since from confinement. After a little time he was recaptured, and is now chained to the wall of one of the miserable cells of the loathsome dungeon of which he was once the cruel master.

ARRESTED.—The rebel Colonel Bayley, the man who at Selma, Alabama, some time ago, offered $1,000,000 for the assassination of President Lincoln, has been arrested and is now confined at Fortress Monroe. Two witnesses have been brought from Selma who testify that he is the man.

OPPRESSION.—The people of Missouri, notwithstanding they have been downtrodden and overrun by Abolitionists.—Copperhead paper.

The writer of the above evidently considers the rebels of Missouri as constituting the "people" of that State, since this is the only class that has been overrun."

The St. Joseph Herald of the 15th May is responsible for the following:

"When a superior race like ours," said one of chivalry to a "modest" looking Federal soldier, "comes in contact with an inferior race like the negroes, what do you think will be the result?" "Mulattoes," was the ready answer of the Yank.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO JULY 15.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Commercial's Washington special dispatch says it is not true that 40,000 troops have been sent to Texas. The whole force in that country is only 14,000 men, being part of the 10th and 25th corps. They will be distributed over the whole State. It is not an army of observation, as each soldier now in the field costs over a thousand dollars a year. The Government is not disposed to make unnecessary display of such an expense.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Herald's Galveston correspondent gives an additional account of the exodus of the rebels from Texas to Mexico. The rebel Generals Shelby and Smith, with 3,000 followers, accompanied by ex-Governors Moore and Allen of Louisiana, and other distinguished political characters of the late Confederacy. They had transportation and supplies for six months, and were well armed. They professed to be merely going to Mexico to settle, not to fight for either Republicans or Imperialists.

Many of the Texan people choose, or are compelled to remain in their own State with their unfriendly feelings against these fugitives, especially the leaders. Those who remain are deeply engrossed just now, in reconstruction, amnesty, and free labor, &c., and are looking about for ways and means of surmounting the general prostration in which the war has left all manner of industry in the State. It is estimated that there is still remaining in Texas 100 to 150 thousand bales of cotton. The new crop of cotton, owing to various unfavorable circumstances, will not exceed 50,000 bales. It was calculated that there was within the State, accumulated during the war, 5,000,000 pounds of wool.

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—The Eastern telegraph line is down.

Commodore McDougal, in reply to the petition to send the Colorado after the Shenandoah, promised to communicate with the Department at Washington as soon as possible; also, that he has all the material necessary to arm and fit her, officers to command and a portion of a crew to man her. The P. M. S. S. Co. will offer no obstacle to the chartering of the Colorado. Besides this new expedition, which begins to look probable, it may not be generally known that the Wachusett and Iroquois are now in the China waters in search of the pirate, while the Lancaster and Saginaw are no further off than Acapulco, where they will receive the news received on Friday last by the steamship Active.

The loss by the burning of the Mechanics' Hotel yesterday was about $3,000. Jacob J. Rapp was badly burned about the face, breast and right arm. John Cronan was burned about the hands and face, as were also a young German boy and a chambermaid.

The report that Isaac Gordon has just commenced suit against the San Francisco Sugar Refinery was erroneous. The suit was commenced several years ago and is now on trial. The San Francisco Sugar refinery went out of business in 1861 and has nothing to do with the refineries now in operation.

Ed. Durcar was brought before Judge Hoffman to-day, on the charge of having destroyed certain documentary evidence in his possession which was contained in the case of confiscation of champagne. On examination the complaint was dismissed.

Judge Cowles sentenced Mickey Grant [illegible] years imprisonment in the State Prison for felony in burglariously entering the house of Frederick McCredith some months ago.

Legal Tenders advanced to-day with sales $1,800 at 73½, brokers' rates 73⅞@74⅛.

Flour—the market is scarcely so firm. Sales include 500 quarter sacks of superfine for export to China at $5 75 per bbl, and 500 bbls of extra at $4 50@$6 75—the latter price for choice; jobbing sales of extra at $6 75@$7 50.

Wheat market quiet; 600 sks fair, sold at $4 37½ per 100 lbs. Barley is a shade lower; sales of 675 sks at $1, and 400 do. at 97½c per 100 lbs.

Arrived, bark Harvest Queen, 68 days from Callao, with a cargo of rice and sugar.

Sailed, July 23d, bark Samuel Merritt, Abbott for Portland; bark Lucy Ann, Townsend, for Puget Sound.

INTERESTING ITEMS FROM WASHINGTON.—The New York Tribune has the following items of interest, dated Washington, June 18th, which have not, until now, been received here:

A party who has patiently read the entire 48 pages of Alexander Stephens's labored plea for pardon, assures us that he insists upon the righteousness and necessity of slavery as persistently as in any other of his former letters or speeches. He shows little or no contrition, and seems to consider the rebellion as a dire legitimately thrown and, having lost, the Southern people are entitled to gracefully retire and submit. His reference to the Tribune is incidental, and does not justify either the Washington despatch or editorial which appears in a New York cotemporary on Saturday.

John Minor Botts's theory of reconstruction is to let everybody vote who was eligible under the former State Constitutions, and none others; but to allow no man to be eligible to an elective office who has in any manner aided rebellion.

It is ascertained that there is a secret combination among the rebel real estate owners of Richmond not to sell to any Northern or Yankee purchaser. This accounts for the fact that property there is now held from 100 to 300 per cent. higher than before the rebellion. A little wholesome confiscation by Dr. Underwood, it is thought, may somewhat modify this disease. The local clergy have a special fear of Northern preachers and teachers. The other learned professions are similarly exercised, while the old business men look with an evil eye upon every new Yankee comer who brings brains, energy and capital with him.

There is a large amount of European capital seeking investment in Southern lands, which will be expended whenever the status of the Southern States and their land titles shall insure its safety.

There is a good prospect that the pardoning carnival is about over. The scores of eminent statesmen, lawyers and politicians who have thronged the White House and secured the pardon of culprits for abundant fees, are likely to find their business curtailed on account of its past success. A strong pressure was brought to bear upon President Johnson for the pardon of Wilmer, who has been sentenced to two years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000; but he utterly refused to interfere with the finding of the court. On another occasion he is said to have remarked that there had got to be a limit to these executive interferences.

SEPARATION OF CANADA FROM ENGLAND.—Events seem to be shaping themselves toward a final political separation of the British North American Provinces from the parent country. This may not be accomplished very soon, but it is certain that England is quite willing for it to take place. The London Examiner, in discussing the question has the following:

It appears to us, then, very plain that the sooner we part in peace and friendship with our North American colonies the better for us and for them. They desire independence, and, indeed, virtually have it already, while all that remains to us is the heavy cost and heavy responsibility of a nominal sovereignty. This is the deliberate opinion of Lord Bury, who has given us the draught of a preparatory treaty with this object, drawn up, in our view, with great skill and judgment, and thorough knowledge of the subject he deals with. From the present state of the political relations of North America the question is soon likely to become a very prominent one, and in such a case the work of Viscount Bury will be the text book and the guide of every statesman desirous of detailed and reliable information.

A. H. STEPHENS.—A soldier, acting as one of the guards over A. H. Stephens at Fort Warren, informs the Traveller that he (Stephens) spends most of his time in writing, and has already prepared rolls of manuscript relative to the rebellion. He also reads considerably, and each morning spends some time in singing hymns, which he does with a good voice and much feeling and spirit. He maintains a proud and haughty air, and stands upon his dignity, manifesting no desire whatever to converse with any one while taking his daily walks upon the ramparts. He, however, expresses occasionally his dislike for Jeff. Davis, and for that matter, so does Postmaster General Reagan, who is kept in an adjoining cell.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE.—In relation to negro suffrage, the Louisville Journal of the 6th of June, makes this statement:

The question is not whether the negro can ever be entrusted with the ballot under any given set of circumstances. That has been done even in the South, and without any harm, and it may, and very probably will, be done again.

CONFISCATION IN VIRGINIA.—It is stated that seventy-five pieces of property in Richmond have been already libelled for confiscation; which is only a beginning. The proceeding is in rem, that is to say, against the property itself—the owner not being made a party to the cause. The term of the Federal Court at which the libels will be proceeded and acted upon will be held in the Fall.—Richmond Republic.

The Way to do it.—Speaking of the competition for the trade of Idaho via the Columbia river against the [illegible] Sacramento river, the Umatilla Advertiser says: [illegible] up here and help us build a good road from [illegible] the river to Snake river, and put a steamer [illegible] river above Old's Ferry. We want a road from the [illegible] that a stage coach can be driven over at a speed of [illegible] miles an hour, and freight teams haul 1,200 [illegible] 1,500 pounds to the animal. [illegible] such an enterprise and we would [illegible] to as great an extent as any [illegible]. We have not the money here to do it as [illegible] that can be spared from business. It will [illegible] the lowest estimate that can [illegible] tons of goods are forwarded over the road to [illegible] every day for ten months in the year [illegible] this amount of freight [illegible] and pay a liberal percentage on the investment. There are no obstacles in the way for a good road with [illegible] grade. No mountains but are easily passed. We [illegible] in the same. From Mr. H. J. Mowbary, now in [illegible] we [illegible] that there is not a cheap and [illegible] road across the Blue Mountains. Himself and brother have expended a very large sum of money in putting it [illegible] a team of horses can be driven over it at a good [illegible] the entire distance. There being no obstacles in the way [illegible] good roads cannot be made, it will [illegible] be singular if as good a winter route [illegible] summer travel proves it to be. About the steamboat on Snake river, we are informed the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, with that degree of enterprise which has heretofore characterized their transactions, design putting one on at the earliest possible time, and when they do it, encourage them; don't call it a "monopoly," and spoil their plans, but [illegible] the sake of assisting the region in its development.

Rock from Eagle Creek Diggings.—The [illegible] at the Eagle Creek mines, lying south of Snake river, between the mouth of Powder river and Burnt [illegible] not only good as a placer [illegible] but [illegible] which promise paying quantities [illegible] to return for capital expended [illegible] working a [illegible] a ledge which [illegible] were at work [illegible] arable [illegible] followed the discovery. We have been shown specimens of the rock, and similar specimens were assayed at the Dalles, proving its value [illegible] $1,142 to the ton of 2,000 lbs. [illegible] to have been discovered, and the one mentioned [illegible] to be a continuation of [illegible] tracing [illegible]. The [illegible] Iron Works in this city [illegible] working several hundred pounds [illegible] of the Eagle Creek ledges, the Knight, the [illegible], the [illegible] and the Rocky. No extraordinary yield is anticipated from this rock. [illegible] the gentlemen interested in it will [illegible] it to make the ledges a good thing, and [illegible] at work to put up a [illegible] mill.

Boise Dust Overdue.—[illegible] Wells, Fargo & Co. last evening [illegible] of parties for passing [illegible] upper country. [illegible] and a man named Harvey [illegible] this "stretched hemp" in [illegible] A man in Idaho City named [illegible] good standing in society [illegible] operator in the [illegible] able amount of the [illegible] He was taken to jail [illegible] in session, the next morning [illegible] him. His arrest created [illegible] imitation is said to be [illegible] would easily pass as genuine [illegible] highly galvanized that acids [illegible] upon it.

Rumors from Umatilla.—The Advertiser of July 29th [illegible] "Mr Robbins, Superintendent of the New York Owyhee Gold & Silver Mining Company, [illegible] for the delivery [illegible] of a 30-stamp quartz mill, boilers, engines, tools, [illegible] etc., at Ruby City, Owyhee, at seven and a half cents per pound, and the freight will be loaded in the [illegible] to-day. We are told that the [illegible] The great number of teams here, render it an easy matter for any amount of freight to leave town at [illegible] notice, and at prices that [illegible] with, unless it be by the [illegible] delivering freight at Boise City at five cents per pound, and to Idaho City an additional cent is charged. This price for freight is certainly at a reasonable figure. How long it will continue at the prices now going [illegible] hard to say, and many are looking for a [illegible] but [illegible] that such will be the case while the roads are in their present good condition, and teams and trains [illegible] as they now are."

A Fear of an Explosion.—Our people are just now talking [illegible] from powder explosions, and meditating on the [illegible] if a casualty should ignite two [illegible] over the river opposite this city. A few take the [illegible] that it could do us no harm, while very many [illegible] that it would cause such a trembling that Portland [illegible] before it. We notice that recently a [illegible] Government [illegible] exploded in Mobile, Ala., and the shock was of such violence that steamers in the water were literally destroyed by it, and blocks of buildings from eight to ten squares distant were totally demolished. [illegible] shock was perceptibly felt; it is said, a distance of [illegible] miles. Now, we are opposed to the experiment or [illegible] to see how badly an explosion of the magazine [illegible] this city would affect the place, and agree that the [illegible] should be removed, or distributed to smaller [illegible].

"[illegible] at Home."—This new monthly magazine is [illegible] to religious and useful literature. It is edited by [illegible] wood, and published by Charles Scribner & Co., New York. From a perusal of the first two numbers we [illegible] that it is designed to stand among our monthly [illegible] as the representative of the religious element [illegible] literature. Besides articles on purely religious [illegible] it will contain reviews of books, biography and historical [illegible] poetry, notes of travel, moral [illegible] on popular science, and essays upon miscel[illegible] Discarding the frivolous, the irreligious [illegible] it will aim to furnish a pure, healthful [illegible] literature; it will be animated also by a [illegible] catholic spirit, so that it may belong to the [illegible] church.

[illegible] Horses.—Oregon is becoming a great horse [illegible] State. Recently we gave an account of a colt [illegible] sizable size, growing through this city for Marion county, being 15½ hands high, at an age of one year and [illegible] An Abernethy Mills correspondent says they [illegible] some remarkable colts in that vicinity. One [illegible] by Mr W. C. Myer, at 11 months and seven [illegible] 15¼ hands high and girth 63 inches. At [illegible] and fifteen days of age, was 15½ [illegible] with a girth and [illegible] of 71 inches, and [illegible] The same man owns one still larger, [illegible] we have not the figures. These handsome animals, [illegible] are assured they are, will be at the State Fair [illegible] at which time our correspondent promises us [illegible] "the most remarkable colt in Oregon."

The Weather.—The weather for some days last week [illegible] hot—thermometers ranging from 88 to [illegible] The town [illegible] most undoubtedly have been [illegible] by this overheat, only for the superabundant supply [illegible] and the masterful exertions of the people [illegible] Such efforts were mostly conducted in [illegible] Had the thermometer been in an exposed [illegible] the mercury would undoubtedly have boiled [illegible] Now we are again in the enjoyment of the finest [illegible] weather. In the language of one of Oregon's fair [illegible] "earth and sky are in their holiday guise, [illegible] living is a positive luxury." There are many [illegible] days, even in Portland.

The Bannock Lode.—In our item about Santiam [illegible] omitted to mention another prominent lode [illegible] and being [illegible] forward with energy—[illegible] lode. It is equally as well defined as the White [illegible] and is being opened in the same manner, with tunnels on each side of the mountain. There is not the least doubt existing in the mind of our informant as to [illegible] the [illegible] or extent of Santiam, and we expect much from the new region.

President Lincoln's Funeral March.—[illegible] has [illegible] us with a copy of the above piece of new [illegible] by Mack. It is one of the most popular of its [illegible] in the East, and has a fine picture of the lamented President accompanying it. Professor [illegible] has all the latest publications of music.

The Harp of Judah.—We have been favored by [illegible] & Co., of San Francisco, with a copy of a new book of Music bearing the above title. The author is L. [illegible], of Boston. The book appears to contain many fine and new pieces of music, and we think will be found worthy of examination. Mr Emerson is favorably known to lovers of music throughout the whole country.

In Service.—The Chief Engineer this morning gives [illegible] that Willamette Fire Engine Company No. 1 is now [illegible] The machine has been thoroughly re[illegible] painted. There will be a drill of the [illegible] this evening.

Boise and Owyhee

FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT

Ruby City, July 11, 1865.

Editor Oregonian:

The [illegible] side of the mountain that bears that name overlooks the dreary waste through which Snake river runs, and the barren desert that stretches to the base of the Boise mountains. As [illegible] from Ruby City, there is in view a little west of south [illegible] a high [illegible] of mountains which [illegible] until late in every season, spotted with banks of snow. It is among the [illegible] banks that crown the highest of these ridges that the Oro Fino, War Eagle, Silver Legion, Newburyport, Minnesota, and other well known ledges are situated, while many others are lying on the western side of the range towards and upon Jordan creek, which rises in these mountain range and courses westward to the Owyhee, which, although it gives its name to this [illegible] and to these mines, is by the road traveled sixty miles distant from here. The Morning Star ledge runs across the ridge just opposite Ruby City, which is on the west side of Jordan creek, and crosses that creek about half a mile above and just below Silver City. Until lately the Oro Fino was the western boundary and the Morning Star the eastern limit of the valuable ledges. The [illegible] and [illegible] family of leads lies still to the west of it, but their richness is not so definitely proved as is that [illegible] many other mines here. The Oro Fino ledge is the leading feature of Owyhee—the world has always heard of the Morning Star, and [illegible] indeed they are so, for the reason that the [illegible] very ground on those two ledges has been better developed and [illegible] has proved more valuable than have any other of the Owyhee mines. As objects of public interest I shall endeavor to describe these two mines as I have been able to form an opinion of them after personal examination.

A LOOK AT THE ORO FINO.

A day or two since I climbed the mountain by the well graded road that leads from the Morning Star mill to the Oro Fino mine, and found my self after an hour's walk, at the tunnel which commences to run in at the north end of the 1,000 feet owned by the discovery company, and pierces the mountain for 600 feet, where it is met by a shaft 198 feet deep, thus insuring not only ventilation, but a thorough prospect of the ledge for that distance. The tunnel and the shaft both follow the ledge which for the full length of the shaft has been sunk 198 feet, or 70 feet below the end of the tunnel, is perfectly vertical, having no perceptible "pitch" or inclination east or west. The Oro Fino here crosses a sharp ridge, and the tunnel [illegible] 500 feet further, would pierce the hill and [illegible] out on its southern side. The foreman of the mine had promised to visit it with me whenever I would go up to see it, and I was informed by those at work without, that he would be found somewhere in the mine superintending the work. I was furnished a candle to light me on my damp and uncomfortable way. A planked track is laid for the car that whirls out the ore, and the walking was, therefore, good, but water was continually dropping on either side, and the drainage from the mine ran out under the track I walked on. It soon grew as dark as Erebus; the dampness was oppressive, and the smell of powder that followed a couple of blasts was not in full force without a chance of avoidance. The candle burned, and that was all. Its glimmer did not light my way, but merely showed me my self and a foot or two of wall rock and arch over head. There was an idea of a "cave in" all the time presented to my imagination, and the remembrance of various catastrophes in mines here tofore read and heard of, were prominent. However, all this vanished with the distant glimmer of lights, the sound of the pick as it dug out ore, and of voices, that most comforting sound in all uncomfortable places. I found my friend the foreman, and remained awhile to observe the progress of work. The sight of half a dozen men, stripped to the under shirt, and swinging their picks into the sides of the surrounding mine, would make a picture of merit, though the scene should be felt in its damp discomfort as I felt it, to have the unusual, unearthly nature of it half appreciated. One who has read of goblins delving in the earth, begins to realize the picture, and one who is utterly practical, must feel a touch of the supernatural in connection with the work before him. The scene became more familiar and less repulsive, as in company with my friend, the foreman, I retraced my steps, and with him visited the different chambers at different depths, wherein workmen were engaged in excavating ore to be worked. The ledge, as I examined it, varies in width from six to seven feet, and not more than one in some places. I should place the average width in the lower tunnel at three feet at least, and perhaps three and a half. As it is now developed, a great amount of ore could readily be extracted at a cost not exceeding $3 50 per ton, and landed at the mill at about $4. The development of the mine has cost about $75,000, and some estimate of the work done by Messrs Moore & Fogus, the principal owners of the mill, and half owners in both the Morning Star and Oro Fino discoveries, may be formed by work done in those two, and other mines in which they are interested, together with the erection of the Morning Star mill, which is situated near the ledge of that name on Jordan creek, has cost over two hundred thousand dollars, as I am reliably informed. Messrs Moore & Fogus have so far done all that has been done for the permanent development of Owyhee, and it is gratifying to know that the 2,000 tons of ore crushed from the Oro Fino mine, has repaid all this investment already, which fact speaks strongly for the future of this mining district. So seldom is it that any mine pays its way from the commencement, as has this. Other ledges may be less rich than this, but there are many others that are little prospected, that yet promise almost as good a profit for working. Messrs Moore, Fogus & Co., have several other ledges opened that promise almost as well.

THE MORNING STAR MINE.

A few minutes walk takes one from Ruby city to the Morning Star mine. I will say, in commencing on the Morning Star, that is considered several times as rich in precious metals as the Oro Fino. The latter shows a return principally of gold, tending to silver, its bullion being worth $6 to $8 per ounce, while the Morning Star yields ore rich in silver, its bullion being worth only about $2 per ounce. A look at the ore piles at the mill will show the difference in the rock. They differ as much in look and character as the oak and pine differ among forest trees. The mill undertook just fall to work Morning Star rock with poor success. The ore to be well worked and to save the metal in it, needs to be roasted and calcined. The mill has lately received additional machinery to properly work silver ores, and when that is in operation the intent is to commence on 300 tons of rock from the Morning Star now in the mill, with the expectation, by close working to realize $400 per ton. The rock heretofore worked yielded $213 per ton, but was not half saved. A shaft has been sunk 120 feet deep, and from that a level has been run 200 feet north and 50 feet south. As bad air drove them out of the mine, another shaft is being sunk on the ledge 50 feet above, to insure ventilation. The ledge is not so wide as the Oro Fino by perhaps a foot, but its ore is the most valuable found in this district to any similar extent, and its reputation is that of being the richest ledge in camp. $500 per foot is demanded for this mine, and the owners of the adjoining ground lying north, which is undeveloped, have refused $150 per foot therefor. Wherever struck for a mile on its course, the Morning Star has the same character of rock and the same richness of ore. All that Owyhee needs is capital and judgment in its use. Common sense is as necessary as machinery, and if all the money invested here so far had been used with judgment, the interests of Owyhee would have been advanced, and the pockets of sundry capitalists would ere this have been replenished with dividends as well as drained by assessments. There are gentlemen in Portland who are for a notice of Ross Browne's picture in the last Harper of "Assessments" when a judicious use of their cash would have made them brilliant realities of "dividends" as he has depicted them.

BATTLE WITH MALHEUR INDIANS.

I have just seen two gentlemen who were present at a late fight between the Oregon Cavalry and the Malheur Indians. Some three weeks ago a herd of forty one horses was stolen from a ranch on Reen[illegible] Creek, about seven miles distant from here. The ranchers, Messrs. Churchill and Pope applied to Lieut. H[illegible] of the Oregon Cavalry, who was stationed near here with a company of men, for assistance to follow and recover the stock. Lieut. Hobart, with thirty five men accompanied by three persons from the ranch, traced the stock until crossing the Owyhee they followed the Indians into the heart of the Malheur country about one hundred and twenty five miles distant. It was here and in the vicinity of the spot where the Malheur Indians have at several different times repulsed parties sent out from Mormon Basin, Powder River and Canyon Creek. The six scouts who were in advance discovered and pursued the Indians two days before the battle occurred, who escaped leaving their horses behind. The troops spent considerable time unavailingly searching for the Indian camp, which trouble was saved them the third day by the fact that the Indians having been warned by the fugitives of the approach of white men, returned in the night and made the first attack. Towards two o'clock in the morning, the sentinels came in with word that the Indians were surrounding the camp, evidently with the intention to rush in and stampede the horses and mules. Lieut. H[illegible] gave orders to drive the animals all in and tie them below, [illegible] which was attempted [illegible] enough to provoke the fire of [illegible] portion of the [illegible] twenty horses, being driven off by a part of the Indians, while the remainder stayed to attack the camp and prevent pursuit. The howitzer [illegible] by Lieut. H[illegible] who [illegible] himself amid a shower of balls [illegible] attracted by the glistening of the gun. Several shells were exploded [illegible] astonishment.

In the meantime, seven men taking the animal left for the west after the stolen band [illegible] Indians [illegible] horses [illegible] rapidly. They charged upon them, gaining on them continually, and eventually recovering all but two of those just taken, as well as thirteen of those originally stolen from [illegible] Creek. This was all accomplished before daylight and the troops returned to camp after this brush with two wounded men, one named Jonestown [illegible] Prairie, Marion county, slightly wounded in the arm, and another named Philips shot through both thighs, a flesh wound, from which he is now recovering.

There were from seventy five to one hundred Indians all well armed and equipped. Corporal Walker and Philips who were wounded were out off and surrounded by Indians and [illegible] to run a gauntlet to make their escape. In so doing Philips was wounded, the corporal saving his life by [illegible] an Indian about to follow and kill him when he turned, shot the Siwash and then took the horse Philips rode with his rifle to get him through the danger. A very agreeable thing that with the Indians shooting from behind every [illegible] the three citizens who were along join in praising the conduct of all engaged, and especially that of Lieut. H[illegible] who evinced courage and judgment of the first order. They [illegible] return within some [illegible] and relate the Indians' losses, and as he is a gentleman of undoubted merit and gallantry, I suggest that he be made a captain of and allowed to take the job in hand. I must not omit to state that seven or eight Indians are known to have been killed. They fired very wildly and so did but little execution. Finding a man seriously wounded on his hands and their scouting small chance to do much more when the Indians were thoroughly alarmed and forewarned, the expedition secured the stock recovered and has returned to their camp on [illegible] creek, about [illegible] from here.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

—OF—

HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY

HALF A CENTURY,

WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN CURING

Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, Asthma, and every affection of the

THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST,

INCLUDING EVEN

CONSUMPTION.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes, during the season, from some one, however slightly developed, of the above symptoms; a neglect of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded disease in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known; so great is the good it has performed, and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the virtues of the Cherry, there are combined with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold, and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal, to relieve, and to cure disease, exists in no other medicine yet discovered.

The unequalled worth that has attended the application of this medicine in all cases of

has induced many physicians of high standing to [illegible] it in their practice, [illegible] We have space only for the names of a few of these:

S. H. Pinley, M. D., San Francisco, Cal.
K. Boynton, M. D., Exeter, Me.
[illegible] Hayes, M. D., China, Me.
R. Fellows, M. D., Hill, N. H.
W. H. Webb, M. D., Cape Vincent, N. Y.
W. B. Lynch, M. D., Auburn, N. Y.
[illegible], M. D., [illegible], N. J.
H. D. Martin, M. D., [illegible], Pa.

The proprietors have letters from all classes of our fellow citizens, from the halls of Congress to the humble cottage, and even from abroad, [illegible] the virtue of Wistar's Balsam have extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth, without any effort on our part to introduce it beyond the limits of our own country.

TO CAUTION THE PUBLIC.

After October 1, 1865, all genuine WISTAR'S BALSAM of WILD CHERRY for the Pacific Coast will be enclosed in a new wrapper which will bear the printed names of Seth W. Fowle & Co., Boston, Mass., and Jos. D. Park, Cincinnati, Ohio, as well as facsimile of the signatures of "I. Butts," "Seth W. Fowle," and "H. Wistar, M. D."

Horrible Social Condition in the Gulf States

A correspondent of the New York Times who is vouched for as an observing gentleman of intelligence, tells an unpleasant story of the results of his observation in a journey along the line of the Mobile and Great Northern Railroad to Montgomery, Ala, and thence down the river to Mobile. He says:

The people, black and white, are starving. The whites are hardly conscious of their horrid situation. They are as [illegible] and as [illegible] ever. They dress in rags, and have no money to pay their passage on the cars or boats. They subsist mainly by eating refuse which, in ordinary times would hardly be given to the dogs.

Some procure rations from the Government of the United States; others go hungry. They will not work. They say that they were not made to work, and that only "niggers" should engage in toil. Thinking themselves true to this character they allow their lands to go uncultivated. Their gardens, which by their own industry, aside from the industry of the negro, should "bud and blossom as the rose," are grown up in weeds. On the train which bore us to the capital of Alabama, were a large number of women who were going to the military authorities for rations. They were exceedingly bitter, some against the Union and some against Jeff. Davis. They could say what they pleased against the former but regarding the latter, they must keep "mum." There were Confederate soldiers on board, and when a word was said against Jeff or the defunct Confederacy, some swaggering rebel would cry out "shut up," and with such emphasis as caused a general silence on that subject.

One woman, formerly from Pensacola, informed me that her husband had been conscripted into the rebel service at a time when she lay very sick, and while he was gone for a physician. The conscript officer would not allow him to so much as go home and say "Good bye." She had five small children, and for two days was unable to procure them any food. Though without money she ventured on the car, and when the conductor came along for tickets, she said she had no money and that she could not pay him.

The conductor informed her that she should not have gone on board a public conveyance, without means to pay her passage. The poor soul began to cry aloud, thinking she was to be put off. A Yankee soldier pitying her, paid her fare, and the conductor was satisfied. A mad rebel standing by, told the passengers that it served her right, and that she ought to be put off—"any one who would talk of President Davis as she did."

There were five times more confederates than there were Union soldiers on the train. Indeed, one would suppose that the rebellion was yet in its glory from the speeches of these braggarts. Union men cannot breathe freely or rest at any ease apart from the military authorities. This is a solemn fact. Along the entire line we witnessed enough to convince us that no other remedy than bayonets will suit this country for many months to come.

I heard of starved women and children—persons who had actually starved to death. I have no doubt that such is the case. The appearance of the country fully justifies the belief that the greatest distress prevails among the people. And yet it is strange how terribly bitter the returned rebels are. Even on their way to the Government Commissary to procure rations, they abuse the Government and the people of the United States. Tenfold as unmerciful as any we have heard for months were used by this mad parade.

The colored people will be murdered and driven to untimely graves if the Government does not keep the provost-guards at the county-seats and the cities. So great is the madness of the old slaveholders over defeat and subjugation that on their return home, they avenge themselves by cutting off the ears, nose or lips of their former slaves. This is not a dream. It is a terrible fact, and I am sure that when it is known to our loyal people there will arise such a feeling of indignation as will surely reach the very heavens. At Montgomery five men came in one day with ears cut off and in an almost nude state. Others came in with throats cut, while others appeared terribly marked over their bodies with blows from sticks and stones. The perpetrators are "chivalrous," high-toned, well-bred men, no doubt. Thank heaven, the dominion of such gentry is at an end. Gen. A. J. Smith and Col. Geddes are vigilant in their search for the cruel monsters. But these cases are only examples. All officers and soldiers of the army here are filled with deepest horror over these awful deeds, and are resolved that they must end. When the train stops on the railroad, or when a boat stops at a landing the day is usually spent in tormenting poor colored men who may be attempting to come on board. The only [illegible] are known when a [illegible] officers and soldiers are on board to give protection to the poor refugee. I am of opinion, [illegible], that one twentieth of these awful deeds will never be known.

On leaving Mobile, we were a little more free and conversed with [illegible] considerably. Speaking of "one government" one of these stepping up very firmly said, "No, sir; not our government; it is yours. We have no government. We are [illegible], and will never have our souls so degraded as to have anything to do with [illegible] government. But as us from the obligation of this parole, and we will leave the [illegible] people who have overpowered us." "Yes sir; that's our view," said a dozen others of the same stripe.

Names of Those Indicted for Treason at Norfolk.—Washington correspondence of date 15th June, says:

The following is the official statement of the names of thirty-seven persons indicted for treason in the United States District Court sitting at Norfolk, Va: Montgomery D. Winder; Robert Ould, Commissioner of Exchange of prisoners; George Booker, Cornelius Boyle, a Washington Secessionist; W. H. Payne and Thomas P. Turner, James A. Seddon, late rebel Secretary of War; William Burton Richards, Jr.; Wade Hampton, late Lieutenant-General rebel cavalry forces; Richard H. Dulany, of Alexandria; William E. Taylor, John De Bree, James Longstreet, late Lieutenant General rebel army; Robert E. Lee, late General in Chief rebel army; Oscar F. Baxter, William Mahone, late Major General rebel army; William Smith, late rebel Governor of Virginia; Eppa Hunton, late member of rebel Congress from Virginia; Roger A. Pryor, late high private in the rebel army; Daniel R. Bridgeford, Charles K. Mallory, George W. C. Lee, son of Gen. Lee; Samuel Cooper, late Adjutant and Inspector General of the rebel army, and formerly Lieutenant Colonel United States Army; William Henry Fitzhugh Lee, son of Gen. Lee; Henry A. Wise, Ex-Governor of Virginia and late Brigadier-General rebel army; Benjamin Huger, George W. Alexander, Richard H. [illegible], Fitzhugh Lee, nephew of General Lee and late Major General in the rebel army; Thomas S. Bocock, late Speaker of the rebel House of Representatives and formerly member of United States Congress.

Reported New Play of Shakespeare.—A MS has been deposited in the Museum of the Shakspeare House, Crystal Palace, purporting to be a play written by Shakspeare, with marginal notes, additions and corrections in the Poet's hand writing. This would be a literary prize indeed, if its authenticity could be established.

Mason, of Virginia, declared himself for Secession as long ago as 1866 and stated that he was a candidate for the first halter. Mr. Mason should be notified to come home and get his halter.

Oregon State Fair in October.—Premiums for Implements and Machinery.—[illegible] plowing [illegible] the work of [illegible] depth and plowing [illegible] width of furrow [illegible] an achievement that can only be attained by care skill and practice. We trust that there will be many entries under this head, in which it will be a most interesting part of the fair.

CLASS V.—PLOWING, IMPLEMENTS & MACHINERY.

Best [illegible] farm, not less than 25 acres, with statement how cultivated	25
Best stock farm, not less than 200 acres, with statement of how conducted and cultivated	[illegible]

[illegible] premiums must furnish [illegible] statement [illegible] of the cultivation and the actual product.

Grain Crops.—Four Farms.—We would like to see an active competition for the best grain crops. The premiums are fair. We have heard that heavy crops of grain have been raised in Eastern Oregon, especially in Grand Ronde valley. If this be so, let us have competition from that quarter. If the farmers there have grown more than one hundred bushels of oats to the acre and fifty of wheat, please let us know in a way that will settle the doubt.

In regard to the best farms—farms worthy of premiums—how can a decision be had at the fair? The committee must take time to examine farms entered for premiums. This would be a pleasant duty—and we should like to examine their report of the dwellings, barns, fences, gates, orchards, gardens, of the number of acres entered, number in cultivation, manner of cultivation, &c. We don't care about seeing premiums given for any farm in less in a good state of improvement—and for a farm "that pays."

No. 2.—Agricultural Implements and Machinery.

Directions to Exhibitors.—Exhibitors are desired to give as early notice as possible of articles to be entered for the following premiums so that they may be arranged in their appropriate class.

Imported Agricultural Implements.

Threshing machine	15	10
Reaper	10
Mower	10	5
Plow	6

Persons presenting agricultural implements or articles of mechanical ingenuity and utility are requested to furnish the Secretary with a particular description of the articles, the price and place where they can be had, as it is intended to publish a descriptive list of the articles exhibited at the show for the benefit of manufacturers and purchasers.

Committee—M. S. Burrell, Portland, Superintendent; S. M. Goff, Sublimity, Marion county; R. Burkhart, Albany, Linn county; S. Stott, Wapato, Washington county.

There are in Oregon manufacturers of most of these articles. Why is it that we have never had them at the fairs? There is no better place for the manufacturer to advertise his wares. The premiums are liberal. We trust Oregon manufacturers do not hold back for fear their work will not be properly appreciated.

Within the last twenty years a vast amount of the mechanical genius of the country has been engaged in inventing and manufacturing machinery to relieve the labor and render more profitable the business of the farmer. What immense benefits have resulted to the Western States from the use of agricultural machinery during the war? Some 300,000 men of those States were in the field of strife and yet by means of agricultural machinery, more grain and corn were raised last year than in any year preceding. A farmer who does not, as far as he is able, use agricultural machinery, neglects his true interest.

Messrs. Tilton & McFarland,
Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.
Gentlemen: From representations made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes"

On the 19th of February last a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so called safe was [illegible] and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We [illegible] with what is left of the papers [illegible] that [illegible] Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we noticed Meters. & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND's) and its contents were found to be In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar—such as lard, pork, etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire [illegible] no better than ours.

Yours respectfully,
Your obedient servants,

(Signed.) GEO. L. CHESBORO & CO.

SAFE,

The Only Protection

Against Fire and Burglars.

For the last Fifteen Years

This Safe has been well known in California and the Eastern States. They have resisted all the fires on the Pacific Coast and we can point with satisfaction to the record that out of one of our Safes by means of Burglars. Their fire and burglar proof qualities are so well known that they need no further recommendation.

A good assortment of Tilton & McFarland's Fire and Burglar Proof Safes to be had at 418 Battery Street, San Francisco.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Camb. Place, Paddington; Lock, Harrow road; St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary, Charring Cross, Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road, Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of Birmingham, [illegible] and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Disease.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying [illegible] see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all [illegible] in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, by Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney street, near Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

Consultations FREE.

Prevention Better than Cure.

The newly invented Patent French Safe, a sure Preventive against Diseases and Pregnancy, sent by mail. Price $2. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney St., near Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box 252.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. [illegible] are tinsmiths, shoemakers, news [illegible] of less intelligence than keepers of [illegible] Look over [illegible] Directory and you will not find their [illegible] former occupation. Look at the Directory for 1862 and [illegible] advertising physicians in eight cases out [illegible] safety in trusting any of them [illegible] what they are.
